School Bus Information Center Slated

A special bus information center for the convenience of residents in the Harbor and South areas, whose children will be attending a Los Angeles City School, will be opened starting September 2. It was announced by Raymond Nickerson, City Schools' transportation director. The information center will be located at Fleming Junior High School, Lomita, with Dean White, head bus driver for the area in charge. He may be reached at DA 6-4242. White will be stationed at the Fleming Junior High School for the two-week period preceding the September 15 opening date for the Los Angeles City Schools. However, the information center will be closed on Admission Day, Tuesday, September 9, a legal holiday. Information which White will give will relate to areas to be served, bus routes, time schedules, and other general school transportation problems. He will be able to give information only on school bus transportation. Nickerson emphasized. Public transit line schedules and routes must be secured from the individual firms. He added regulations, transportation is provided for all children who live two or more miles from their elementary school, two and one-half or more miles from their junior high school, and three or more miles from their senior high school.
